The non-rival nature of consumption provides a strong case for the government rather than the market to provide and pay for public goods. Many public goods are provided more or less free at the point of use and then paid for out of general taxation or another general form of charge such as a licence fee.

The Nature of Profit. Entrepreneurs organise factors of production and take risks for which they require an adequate rate of return. The higher the market risk and the longer they expect to have to wait to earn a positive return, the greater will be the minimum required return that an entrepreneur will demand to participate in the market

Financial economics is the branch of economics characterized by a "concentration on monetary activities", in which "money of one type or another is likely to appear on both sides of a trade". Its concern is thus the interrelation of financial variables, such as prices, interest rates and shares, as opposed to those concerning the real economy.
